

Applications and study start

Applications must be received by EHB by July 15 (deadline). Enrolment is only possible for the winter semester. For more information, please visit the EHB website or contact:

telephone: +49 (0)30 845 82 -234, -233, -145, -144 or e-mail: immatrikulationsamt@eh-berlin.de

Study costs

Tuition fees are not charged. However, when registering and re-registering for the next semester, costs such as the semester ticket, a contribution towards material costs, the social contribution to the studierendenWERK BERLIN and the contribution to the student body of the EHB will be incurred. The total amount per semester is currently about 340 euros. As a part-time study program, the study program is not eligible for funding according to the Federal Training Assistance Act (Bundesausbildungsförderungsgesetz – BAföG).

Deutschlandstipendium / Germany stipend

For information on the Deutschlandstipendium at EHB, please contact: deutschlandstipendium@eh-berlin.de www.eh-berlin.de/hochschule/deutschlandstipendium

Housing options and social counselling

Are you looking for an affordable room or apartment for your study stay in Berlin or do you need support, e.g. with social issues? For more information about the rent and living arrangements in the dormitories of the studierendenWERK BERLIN and about the social counselling services, please contact:

studierendenWERK BERLIN

Hardenbergstraße 34 | 10623 Berlin

telephone: +49 (0)30 939 39 70 | www.stw.berlin

Published by

Evangelische Hochschule Berlin

Der Rektor (V.i.S.d.P.)

The university

The Evangelische Hochschule Berlin (EHB) / Protestant University of Applied Sciences Berlin (EHB) is a performance-oriented educational and research institution for the forward-looking and community-promoting SAGE occupational fields of social work, health/nursing, education and in the community. Around 1,600 students, more than 60 full-time professors/lecturers and around 200 lecturers learn, teach and research at one of the oldest training centres for social professions in Germany, which can look back on an educational tradition dating back to 1904.

The recognized high quality of teaching at EHB is characterized by intensive and professional support for students. The EHB maintains good contacts with sponsors and institutions of the social and health economy as well as with institutions of the Diakonie and the Protestant Church. In addition, there are cooperation and project partnerships with colleges and universities in Germany and abroad. The EHB is considered a competent partner for practice-oriented teaching and application-oriented research.

Contact

Evangelische Hochschule Berlin (EHB)

Teltower Damm 118-122 | 14167 Berlin

Postbox: Postfach 37 02 55 | 14132 Berlin

telephone: +49 (0)30 845 82 0 | fax: +49 (0)30 845 82 450

www.eh-berlin.de

Location and access by public transport

Our campus university is located in a green area in Berlin-Zehlendorf in the district of Steglitz-Zehlendorf. You can reach the EHB with the S-Bahn S1 to S-Bahnhof Zehlendorf and from there with the buses 285 (direction S+U Rathaus Steglitz) or X 10 (direction Teltow), getting out at the bus stop Schweizerhofpark.

Foto: EHB | Stand: VII/2023

ehb
EVANGELISCHE
HOCHSCHULE BERLIN

INFORMATION ON THE MASTER'S PROGRAM

Health/Nursing – Vocational Pedagogy

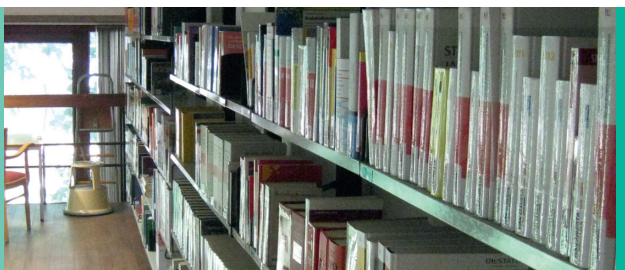

MASTER OF ARTS

consecutive – part-time occupational

Lifelong learning – Being a role model and accompanying people

Evangelische Hochschule Berlin

Teltower Damm 118-122 • 14167 Berlin • www.eh-berlin.de

Study program structure & content

The standard period of study is four semesters (90 credit points). The consecutive part-time study program has a modular structure and combines both theory and practice.

An overview of the study program

1st semester 25 CP | Focus on core competence and reference disciplines

- 1.1 Vocational education
- 1.2 Occupation and role(s) of the teacher
- 1.3 Occupation-related teaching and learning arrangements

2nd semester 25 CP | Focus on productive acquisition

- 2.1 Practical school studies
- 2.2 Reflection on the practical school studies
- 2.3 Professional pedagogy, law as well as ethical thinking and acting

3rd semester 20 CP | Focus on innovative thinking and actions

- 3.1 Profile-related deep dives and current challenges
- 3.2 Structures and actors of education in the health and education sector
- 3.3 Technology and digitalisation
- 3.4A Palliative care and „Death Education“ (elective) or
- 3.4B Family-oriented communication and counselling (elective)

4th semester 20 CP | Focus on self-organisation

- 1.1 Master's thesis
- 1.2 Workshops for the Master's thesis

Academic degree

The program concludes with the award of the academic degree Master of Arts (M.A.).

Professional fields of activity

Vocational educators ...

are experts for theoretical and practical learning, practical support, training planning, cooperation between learning locations, further training and in-company training, e.g.:

- in vocational education
- in health care education
- in company education and human resources
- in vocational further education in public and private sponsorship
- in health, midwifery and nursing science fields of activity
- in science, research and teaching.

Furthermore, professional activities are possible

- in public schools, insofar as the legal requirements for civil servants and careers are met
- in educational administration and educational management
- at colleges, universities and in scientific projects (in teaching and research).

The program is well connected and has an excellent network in the relevant professional fields with nursing schools, companies, authorities and (inter)national universities. Our graduates have excellent opportunities on the job market. We support them in their career planning.

Why study this degree program at EHB?

We have been offering the master's degree program „Health/ Nursing – Vocational Education“ since the winter semester of 2020/21. The EHB is a proven provider of applied social and health sciences in church sponsorship. We critically examine professional, social, ethical, as well as pedagogical issues in health and social care. With this degree program, EHB is breaking new ground in light of the high demand for young teachers in health schools in the state of Berlin. Provide qualified training for urgently needed nursing and health professionals. Innovate education, pedagogy and didactics with regard to their profession. Transfer the latest findings in vocational pedagogy to the respective professional fields.

Admission requirements

- Permission to use a professional title according to the occupational law of their respective health or nursing profession and
- a health-related university degree qualifying for a profession (health or nursing education, dual BA in a health profession, e.g. BoN, health/midwifery/nursing science, nursing management or in another closely related field of study.
- The degree has 210 ECTS. With 180 ECTS credit points, the missing 30 ECTS must be proven by suitable qualification achievements. Let us advise you hereto.

If you have any questions about the program, please contact the professors in charge of the program by e-mail:

sgl-magp@eh-berlin.de